All initial preparations have been made for opening the State summer institute at Fredericksburg on June 20. Indications point to increased attendance. The facilities for conducting this school are much better than they have hitherto been. The management has found it necessary to enlarge the faculty as announced in the catalogue just issued. Malcomb H. Arnold, M. A., Ph. D., has been added to the faculty and will have charge of English work in the professional course. Miss Adele Oglivie, director of music in the Richmond public schools, has been secured to teach vocal music. C. C. Pearson, M. A., will have charge of part of the work in history. The other members of the faculty, sixteen in all, have been announced through the catalogue.

Walter F. Schultz, of Chicago, was found dead near Rosemont, in Alexandria county, on the morning of Sunday, March 7, 1999. His throat was cut or stabbed on the left side. He had gone to Washington presumably to attend the inauguration of President Taft, the evidence indicating that had become intoxicated.

There was said to be little or no doubt that the murder was not committed at the spot where the body was found, for the reason that althought the jugular veln was severed, there was practically no blood at that place.

It was the contention of Mr. Machen that there was no satisfactory proof that Schultz was in Alexandria on the day of the murder, and, in fact, he contends that the day itself was uncertain. There is a theory that he was killed in Washington and his body brought to Alexandria county.

Smith stated a few moments before his death last Friday that his companions were innocent, and that he was also. After his many stories connected with the case, no one can be found to believe anything he might have said at the time. He was advised by the Commonwealth's Attorney prior to his trial that if he would plead guilty to murder in the second degree he would be given an eighteen-year sentence. But he refused to do this and insisted upon a trial.

Lynchburg Concern Charged With Working Women Overtime.
On a charge of violation of the labor laws of the State in employing women or children to work for more than ten hours in one day, the Lynchburg holsery Mills has been cited to appear before Mayor G. Woodville Smith, of that city, in Police Court next Monday. The Code imposes a punishment for such employment.

Service on the writ in this case has been accepted by R. C. Blackford, a director of the company, and it is understood that the prosecution will be resisted.

resisted.
Strenuous efforts were made by some employers of women before commit-tees of the last Legislature to have the laws modified so as to allow labor to be employed for ten and one-half hours a day for five days in the week, so that they might earn time off on Saturdays, the limit being still sixty hours a week. These attempts falled.

So far this year the society has distributed 50,000 copies of the Bible, and confidently expects that before the present fiscal year has expired the number will have reached 100,000.

In the course of his address Mr. Porter stated that prospects for the work of the society were never brighter, and never were the needs more insistent. He emphasized the great strides that have been made in all phases of industrial, educational and social life and pointed out the great dangers and difficulties that of necessity accompany them. At the close of his remarks an offering was taken and a handsome sum realized for the work of the society.
